Brief on IC3 Course

The National Computer Board (NCB), operating under the aegis of the Ministry of Technology, Communication and Innovation, has provided training in ICT to more than 10,000 public officers since the implementation of the Universal ICT Education Programme (UIEP) in year 2006.

Public officers who have not followed the training programme under the UIEP, may apply to register for the Internet and Computer Core Certification (IC3) course, which costs Rs 750 per participant. The Human Resource Development Division is responsible for the processing of the registration forms and for the cost of training for officers of the administrative, human resource and general services cadres.

Regarding the departmental grades, Ministries/Departments should transmit registration forms directly to the NCB. Moreover, the costs of training should be met by respective Ministries/Departments.

This Circular Letter, together with the registration form for IC3 course may be downloaded from this Ministry's website http://civilservice.govmu.org.